I am glad to get your special press roundup. To facilitate prompt handling of it, I wish that you would in each case mark the item that particularly relates to CIA so that we do not have to read through the entire article to get at the point which interests us. You generally do this, but in the long story on Winchell and Hoover it is not done. Possibly this was because of the fact that there was no specific item ^{mentioning} interesting us. At your convenience let me talk to you about the circulation of these news items.
